STUDENT INDUCTION PROGRAMME POLICY

17

Preamble:

The purpose of engineering training is to train engineering graduates well into the branch of admission and to have a holistic personality. It is anticipated that a qualified engineer will work to solve societal/industrial problems using modern tools, technologies and practices. They need to have broad understanding of the same. There is a need to cultivate human values among engineering graduates to fulfill their responsibilities as engineers, citizens and human beings. Considering that students come with diverse thoughts, different backgrounds and preparations. Students should remember that expectations and responsibilities from them will be more after their graduation. In induction, mentors will be provided for the students who can serve as a strong support system. Further, there is a mad rush for engineering so their interest in subject is in question. They are facing issues like pressure from peers, hostel life and many related issues. In order to overcome these problems, it is necessary to create an environment for students to feel at ease, find their interest and explore their inner beings, create bonding with other students as well as with teachers, work for excellence, give a broader view of life, and build character. The induction program is intended to serve these purposes.

Objective:

The important objectives of Students' Induction Program are:

- To make newly joined students feel comfortable in new environment and open them up
- To promote bonding between the students and to build relation between teachers and students.
- To provide a larger perspective on life and a better understanding of oneself, others, society as a whole, human connections, and nature.
- To inspire students to excel in their studies and in their profession.
- To enable the students to become familiar with the amenities and accessing the intellectual and physical resources of the institutions
- To set a healthy routine

Outcome:

The student induction program is expected to give all round development in students, not only from technical and co-curricular point of view but also from moral, ethical and human values' perspective. It would make the students comfortable in understanding the institutional environment, get familiar with their professors and to get acquainted with other amenities such as library, sports etc. Students would have a complete understanding of the course structure: credit, assessment, and evaluation mechanism.

Teacher Pedagogical Training Policy

With rapidly changing technological scenario and ever-increasing global connectivity as well as competitiveness in modern times, the role of technical education in development has become very significant and challenging. In our country, we have observed that in the past few decades there has been a spectacular increase in the number of technical institutions. However, the thrust on improving the quality of education in such a wide spectrum of institutions has been lagging. The technical institutions provide the technical manpower needed to meet the requirements of the country. The teaching professionals or teachers join this profession immediately after the completion of their post graduate or research degrees and then progress in their career. As of now, there is no training, which prepares them to take on the role in the teaching profession.

Objectives of the Training Policy:

The training of teachers will be of two types:

- Faculty Induction Program (FIP) to be provided just after the recruitment of fresh teacher candidates.
- In-service training program catering to the specific requirement at various levels of the teaching career.

Expected outcome from the Training Program:

- The continuous in-service training programs will help teachers to keep abreast with the latest developments and co-relate their teaching with the prevailing practice and indigenous development as per the needs of the country.
- The grooming in professional skills, values and attitudes will have a profound impact on shaping up the young minds and transforming them into socially responsible technical professionals.
